3.4.1   The institution ensures implementation of its stated Code of Ethics for research

DAIICT has always ensured stated code of ethics such as confidentiality and data protection, integrity and conflict of interest etc while conducting original and quality research. Our resource center which has rich collection of research material has online sources where one can find the link http://resourcecentre.daiict.ac.in/eresources/iresources/plagiarism.html

This link has the details on what is plagiarism, plagiarism detection tools, how to avoid plagiarism etc. DAIICT has also subscribed to turnitin software where the faculty/students can check the plagiarism scores of their BTech/Mtech/Phd reports prior to submission in order to ensure originality. Every PhD student is assigned a research progress seminar (RPS) committee consisting of two examiners and supervisor in his/her area of research. The committee reviews the research progress of the candidate by conducting RPS every year and evaluates the performance of the candidate. The course work of PhD students also includes research methodology as a subject in their coursework.
